TICKETS FOR TROOPS

Have you taken advantage of it yet?

PHILIP MILTON, the Conservative prospective Member of Parliament for North Devon, is reminding all serving military personnel and veterans who have been discharged through injury since 2001 of the new www.ticketsfortroops.org.uk website.

Conservative Leader David Cameron first announced his ambition for this scheme in July 2009 and "Tickets for Troops" was launched in November last year as an independent not-for-profit company with huge support from the sport and entertainment worlds.

Tickets have been donated for top football and cricket matches, boxing contests, snooker, horse-racing events, theatre, and both classic and rock music concerts around the country and military personnel can register to apply on line for tickets to any of these events.

Says Philip

"This is a wonderful way of people coming together to say thank you to our brave servicemen and women for all they are doing and showing that we respect the sacrifices that they make on our behalf."

"I am proud to be part of a Conservative Party which has taken a lead in showing how much we appreciate our armed forces and their valuable contribution in making our world a better place"
